

Frost & Sullivan acclaims Eurotech for Redefining the Communications Space with its Cutting-edge M2M Integration Platform for Internet of Industrial Things (IIoT) Applications

Amaro, ITALY – July 13th, 2015 – Eurotech, a leading global actor in the M2M/IIoT marketplace, announced today that it has received a prestigious award from the London-based Growth Partnership Company, Frost & Sullivan for Product Line Strategy Leadership for Cloud-enabled M2M Platform for IIoT Applications in Europe.

In their announcement of the award Frost & Sullivan stated, “Leveraging more than 20 years of experience, Eurotech has built a best-in-class M2M platform that aids the interconnection of embedded devices and offers a broad spectrum of solutions. All of Eurotech’s M2M solutions integrate hardware, software, and services, eventually delivering optimum return on investment (ROI)”. It went on to add, “Optimum flexibility surpasses customer expectations and stands as a befitting option in the highly competitive market domain. With its strong overall performance, Eurotech has earned Frost & Sullivan’s 2015 Product Line Strategy award.”

Frost & Sullivan Research Analyst Guru Mahesh also pointed out that, “...the Everyware Cloud™ assists end users with the proper connection, configuration, and management of devices throughout the entire product life cycle until the product wears out. Its benefits of shorter time to market and pay-as-you-go model are proving highly cost-effective; more importantly, it is flexible enough to be deployed right from the public cloud to a cloud in a box.”

Robert Andres, Eurotech’s Chief Marketing Officer, commenting on the award said, “We are truly honoured to receive this prestigious award from Frost & Sullivan. Here at Eurotech we spend every day trying to improve solutions that, by encapsulating the complexity of M2M/IIoT operational technologies, enable customers and partners to develop and implement successful IIoT applications. We endeavour to make complex technologies available as easy-to-use services and products in order that System Integrators, Software Vendors, Device Manufacturers and all other players in the market can rely on our IIoT portfolio, allowing them to focus all their attention toward their own solutions. An important award like this proves to us and our customers that we are definitely heading in the right direction. It reinforces our passion and motivation to deliver products and services that continue to innovate and contribute to the 4th industrial revolution we are all just beginning to experience.”
